The following statement/ endorsement is a true and factual representation which I have read and understood:

Brian,
When I came to you just 3 short visits ago, I could barely drive over a bridge or through a tunnel. The bridges were the worst - the height, the fear of falling off - I was convinced I would ~~crash~~ crash over the railing and die. Your techniques are not magic, but they may as well be! The first time I went over a bridge after you worked with me was a surprise (pleasant) - I had lost my 8 year old fear! The additional bonus is that I feel confident in other situations that made me nervous before -
